Holiday bag holds new treats

By John Crook
TVDATA FEATURES WRITER

With Thanksgiving past and December officially under way, network and cable programmers are reaching into their holiday gift bags to produce an appealing blend of new movies and specials to complement some old favorites from seasons past.

Among the most entertaining new offerings is "Call Me Claus" (TNT, Sunday, Dec. 2), a holiday fantasy that, against all apparent logic, teams Whoopi Goldberg with esteemed British actor Nigel Hawthorne.

Hawthorne plays St. Nick, who is ending his 200-year tenure on the job and seeking someone to take over the next two-century shift. His most promising candidate, however, is Lucy Cullen (Goldberg), a home shopping channel executive who was turned off to the holiday 30 years ago when her beloved father came home from Vietnam on Christmas Eve — in a box.

On paper, the entire thing sounds ho-ho-wholly predictable, but Goldberg's familiar crankiness strikes very funny creative sparks with Hawthorne's boundless warmth and charm in a whimsical winner of a TV movie that is likely to become a holiday perennial.

Nickelodeon goes fully multicultural this month, with the premiere of holiday-themed programming, including the specials "Merry Christmas," "Little Bill" (Monday, Dec. 3) and "The Fairly Oddparents — Christmas Every Day" (Sunday, Dec. 9); holiday episodes of "Bob the Builder" and "As Told by Ginger" (Monday, Dec. 10); and "Rugrats: Carmichael's Kwanzaa" (Tuesday, Dec. 11).

'The Guardian' clicks with viewers

By John Crook

TV DATA FEATURES WRITER

Even under ordinary circumstances, launching a new network TV series is no easy task. And this season's new shows found themselves being launched in anything but ordinary circumstances, their producers trying to convince viewers to care about fictional characters and situations when real-world events threatened to careen out of control altogether.

As a result, several rookie shows are struggling, including such critical favorites as NBC's sitcom "Scrubs," Richard Dreyfuss' CBS drama "The Education of Max Bickford," Fox's college comedy "Undeclared" and the same network's thriller "24." Viewers instead seem to prefer older series, as if they are seeking the video equivalent of comfort food.

Among the handful of new shows to break out as solid hits, perhaps few are as surprising as "The Guardian," the low-key Tuesday drama about a hotshot young lawyer (Simon Baker) juggling his time between his father's (Dabney Coleman) high-powered firm and the child advocacy office, run by the no-nonsense Alvin Masterson (Alan Rosenberg), where he's been sentenced to perform community service.

Up against formidable competition from a long-running favorite ("Frasier" on NBC) and heavily hyped newcomers, the CBS drama launched with little hoopla, yet held steady, hanging onto most of the audience from its unstoppable lead-in, "JAG," and carrying it over to another hit, "Judging Amy," at the end of the evening.

Sitcom serves holiday mayhem

By John Crook

TV DATA FEATURES WRITER

Viewers who find themselves slipping into a diabetic coma from the syrupy holiday TV fare being spooned out to them will find a pick-me-up in "Grounded for Life," the under-rated Fox sitcom that offers a tart holiday episode on Wednesday, Dec. 19.

"I Saw Daddy Hitting Santa Claus" finds an old yuletide grudge bubbling back to the surface for young dad Sean Finnerty. Heaven knows, Sean's impossible father, Walt, is never easy to deal with, even when he is playing sidewalk Santa — especially after he promises Sean's youngest, Henry, that St. Nick will bring the boy a prohibitively expensive toy on Christmas Eve.

The argument between the two men reaches its colorful climax when Sean — in biblical garb as St. Joseph for a living Nativity scene — completely loses his cool and hurls a tomato at Santa Dad in full view of a horrified crowd. Mayhem involving a crew of infuriated elves quickly ensues.

"We had a blast doing this episode," Logue says. "I knew we had a funny script, but it's more fun to play Joseph than when you read him. Isn't that what they always say? 'Joseph: the lost funnyman?'"

The 35-year-old actor is making no secret of the fact that he hopes this episode will help expand the audience for this smart little family sitcom about two young parents from the rock 'n' roll generation trying to be responsible parents to a trio of kids that includes a melodramatic 15-year-old daughter, Lily. Logue's occasional comic eruptions are nicely balanced by cool Megyn Price as his sane wife, Claudia.

Nation lauds Andrews' 55 years

By Jacqueline Cutler
TVDATA FEATURES WRITER

During her phenomenal 55-year career, Julie Andrews has attended more than her share of memorable events.

But Sunday, Dec. 2, when Andrews was in Washington, D.C., as one of five honorees at the taping of the Kennedy Center Honors, was unique.

"It was very, very special, indeed," Andrews says the following day. "I can't imagine any more glamorous event than this, particularly with the president, the vice president, the secretary of state and the (U.N.) secretary general all under one roof."

On Wednesday, Dec. 26, CBS airs "The Kennedy Center Honors: A Celebration of the Performing Arts." In addition to Andrews, the 24th gala honors actor Jack Nicholson, composer Quincy Jones, pianist Van Cliburn and tenor Luciano Pavarotti for their contributions to American culture. Walter Cronkite is the host of the prestigious event.

During the evening, Carol Burnett spoke about Andrews, her close friend. She recalled that when they did their first TV special in 1962, they talked about men and careers. During their next collaboration in the 1970s, they discussed husbands and children. In the 1980s, the conversation moved to hot flashes and hormones.

Burnett called the singer and actress, beloved for her performance in "Mary Poppins," a bawdy dame, recalling that Andrews had once sent her naughty lyrics to "These Are a Few of My Favorite Things." When the two women came onstage to perform some signature Andrews songs, Andrews says she was just floored.

All My Children

Ryan was furious when he learned Chris was behind his father's death. Jake shocked Laura when he denied he'd been playing games to win Greenlee's affections. Liza convinced Adam to help Ryan find out more about his father. David confronted Tad about Leslie, and learned that Tad and Dixie had separated. Greenlee was jealous when Jake rushed to help Mia. Dixie began having health problems, and someone tampered with her car. Erica admitted she was in love with Chris. Bianca shouldered the blame for Frankie's death.

Next week: Jesse encourages Tad to move forward.

Dick Clark looks into his 30th year as host of ABC's coverage of New Year's Eve activities in Times Square at 10:30 p.m. Monday on ABC.

Dick Clark, New York usher in 2002

By John Crook

TV DATA FEATURES WRITER

Even as it continues to recover from the devastating terrorist attacks of last Sept. 11, New York is again the primary focal point as American audiences prepare to greet in a new year.

"I think our show will be very like the same shows you've seen in the past," says Dick Clark, who marks his 30th consecutive year hosting ABC's "New Year's Rockin' Eve" at 10:30 p.m. from Times Square on Monday, Dec. 31.

Joining Clark on the ABC telecast, which begins in prime time and runs for three and a half hours, is co-host Wayne Brady, who anchors the entertainment portions of the show based in Hollywood. Among the many artists scheduled to perform are Blink 182, Bush, the O'Jays, Pink, Busta Rhymes and Jessica Simpson.

Of his own post in Times Square, Clark acknowledges that security will no doubt be much tighter than in years past, "but I don't think it ever even occurred to anyone that we should cancel this show," he adds firmly.

"This is a tradition for many Americans, and it represents something important to them. It's important that we continue with activities like this, and I feel certain we're going to have a lot of fun, as usual."

While Clark may have seniority in his Times Square tenure, CBS' "Late Show With David Letterman" also is on its usual home turf in Manhattan for its holiday evening telecast, while NBC's "Tonight Show With Jay Leno" airs live from its California studios to the Eastern and Central time zones to cover the traditional dropping of the big ball in Times Square. Fox also plans a 90-minute music special based in Times Square.
